

Dear High Representative Kallas,

In an increasingly complex international landscape, it is fundamental and urgent that the European Union makes every possible effort to guarantee International Law and free trade. It is in this context that we express our deep concern regarding the recent tightening of the pressure measures adopted by the United States Government against the Republic of Cuba.

The actions aimed at paralyzing the island's fuel supply stand in blatant contrast to the spirit and letter of the United Nations Charter, as well as the fundamental principles of freedom of navigation and enterprise. The consequences of such policies are unacceptable on two fronts: on one hand, they constitute a veritable collective punishment that dramatically aggravates the humanitarian emergency to the detriment of the Cuban people; on the other, they represent a direct and harmful interference against the legitimate economic, financial, and commercial activities of European companies.

The European Union cannot limit itself to observing these dynamics. It possesses the necessary legal and political instruments to reject the extraterritorial application of these sanctions and has the duty to protect its economic sovereignty and strategic interests.

Therefore, we formally request that the European External Action Service and the competent institutions step out of a logic of subordination and adopt decisive and concrete initiatives. It is necessary to intervene to protect our economic operators, contribute to alleviating the suffering of the Caribbean population, and reaffirm a model of international relations based on cooperation and mutual respect, rather than on unilateral impositions.

We are convinced that only a firm, autonomous, and coherent European action can truly safeguard the legitimate interests of the Union and its Member States, demonstrating the true authority of our Institutions.
